

MEARS PLANS TO REPAIR SHIP AND REATTEMPT TRIP

Aviators, Who Planned Record 'Round-World Hop, Escape Injury

TIRE CAUSED WRECK

Terrific Noise Accompanies Crash at Harbor Grace On Take-Off

HARBOR GRACE, N. F., Aug. 4.—(INS)—Two crestfallen aviators who hoped to recapture the globe circling speed record now held by the German dirigible Graf Zeppelin planned today to return the wreckage of their plane to New York.

The monoplane in which John Henry Mears and Henry N. Brown hopped off from New York early Saturday on a projected fifteen-day world dash cracked up into a tangled mass without injuring its occupants at dawn yesterday while roaring down the runway on the second lap of its flight. Its goal was Dublin, Ireland, 2,000 miles across the Atlantic.

Overeagerness, darkness and a punctured tire were summed together as the reason of the disaster, which scattered the Lockheed-Vega machine capable of 186 miles an hour over a wide radius. Both men were extricated unhurt, but a search of the wreckage failed to reveal any trace of the Scotch terrier Tailwind II, a mascot loaned the aviators by Mary Pickford. It was believed the dog jumped out of the plane and fled in terror.

The fliers, who arrived here from Roosevelt Field, Long Island, Saturday night, were ready for their long ocean hop before dawn, and despite advice to the contrary decided on an immediate start. At 4:20 a. m. Sunday they climbed into the cabin of the "City of New York" and prepared for the hop.

The terrific noise which accompanied the crash brought spectators on a run, fearing an explosion had occurred. Mears and Brown, helped out of the wreckage, ruefully examined their plane and found everything but the radio equipment and motor a mass of junk, numerous pieces were flung far away.

"Well, we'll get it repaired and try again," Mears said cheerfully a few moments later. He believed that a punctured tire threw the City of New York into a swerve off the runway.

Wins Honor as First Premier of His Country

Furi Pasha, new Premier of Iraq, has been in London to confer with the British authorities concerning the new status of his country. With the abandonment of the British mandate over Iraq, it will be necessary to negotiate a new treaty superseding the old Anglo-Iraq treaty.

ODD FELLOWS' OUTING IS ATTENDED BY 35,000

Children from Orphanage Also Guests of Order at Willow Grove

DIVERSIFIED PROGRAM

More than 35,000 persons took part in the annual outing of members of the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs, held Saturday at Willow Grove Park.

Large delegations were present from the seventy lodges of Odd Fellows of Philadelphia, Montgomery, Bucks, Delaware and Chester counties, and thousands also attended from the sixty-five lodges of more distant counties. The entire enrollment of the Odd Fellows' Orphanage, Ogontz and Cheltenham avenues, were guests.

The program included picnic parties, field sports, drills, band concerts, singing by the double Festival Chorus of 200 voices, and many individual musical numbers and dances.

Much applause was accorded the concerts of the Medina Band. An exhibition drill was given in the afternoon by the American Legion Drum and Bugle Corps of Frankford. Many prizes were awarded to winners of the sport events.

Speakers at a meeting held in the music pavilion emphasized the growth of the order throughout the State. It was pointed out that in the five counties there are 135 lodges with a membership of 24,000.

In Pennsylvania there are 1200 lodges, 300 encampments and 527 Rebekah organizations. The Rebekahs have a membership of 43,000.

Saturday's event was held under auspices of the Past Grand's Association. The general committee consisted of William Ginn, chairman; Jacob Y. Loux and Samuel B. Dennell, vice-chairmen; John Fletcher Hall, secretary; Franklin F. Sherry, treasurer; Elizabeth B. Stone, chairman of women's activities, and Marion Blair, secretary. Jacob Y. Loux is president of the Past Grand's Association.

To Place Memorial Plates At Quakertown Hospital

QUAKERTOWN, Aug. 4.—At the directors meeting of the Quakertown Community Hospital it was announced that the memorial plates for the hospital gifts will be placed within a short time.

On August 16, the hospital will examine as part of its charity program, all of the twenty-eight children Bureau of the United Lutheran churches of America, who are in foster homes near Quakertown. A charity appendix operation was performed on one of these by chief surgeon, Dr. D. K. Santer, and a tonsillectomy on a patient of the Children's Aid Society, of Doylestown, by Dr. S. Mann Uhler.

Continued charity medical and surgical care will be extended to these children who range from three and one-half years to fifteen years. They are making their permanent homes with their foster parents.

Seven Philadelphia Firemen Injured in Auto Collision

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 4.—(INS)—Seven firemen including a battalion chief and his chauffeur, were injured early today in a collision between the fire chief's car and a hook and ladder engine at 18th and Market streets.

The injured were speeding to an early morning blaze when the accident occurred.

The auto of Battalion Chief William Barnett, 50, was demolished in the smashup and both Barrett and his driver, Albert Hodges, 45, suffered broken ribs and internal injuries. The firemen escaped with bruises.

NEW POLICE OFFICER

George Pollard, Corson street, has accepted a position as a police officer and went on duty Saturday evening.

BUCKS COUNTY SCHOOL AUTHORITIES PREPARE FOR OPENING OF THE TERM -- BUILDINGS AND EQUIPMENT ARE NOW BEING RENOVATED

Sellersville and Perkaspie Boards Purchase $20,000 Worth of Furniture for New Consolidated High School — Work Progresses on New High School Building at Southampton — Hilltown Electors to Vote on $110,000 Bond Issue.

SELLERSVILLE, Aug. 4.—Sellersville and Perkaspie school directors have authorized purchase of $20,000 worth of furniture and equipment for the new Consolidated High School building. The purchase includes table-arm chairs, auditorium chairs, shop, cafeteria and kitchen equipment, laboratory appliances and tables and other articles needed when school opens on September 2.

Professor Snyder and the building committee had previously pared down the architect's specifications to the utmost limit to stay within the appropriation of $20,000, which is by no means what should be expended. However, it is the policy of the board to move along rather than to place the district in a situation which might be a handicap to the taxpayers.

Last week the board filled its only remaining faculty need by electing Miss Dorothy L. Chalfont, of Narberth, as teacher of home economics. Miss Chalfont had two years' experience at Linden Hall, Lititz, Pa., and taught for a similar period at the Caskin School for Girls at Devon, Pa. Harold Terry resigned as treasurer of the joint board and is succeeded by Frank Kramer. This action was necessary to comply with the school code which requires that the joint board treasurer be selected from one of the several boards' treasurers.

SOUTHAMPTON, Aug. 4.—Work is in full swing on the erection of a modern high school building at this place. The site is on a section of the school grounds, near the old Southampton high school.

Roy L. Randall, Jenkintown, was awarded the contract for $42,000, over eighteen other bidders. Harry Parker, Southampton, is the architect. The building is to have nine classrooms and an auditorium with a seating capacity of 400. It is to be constructed of brick and stone. The contract date for its completion is December 1, of this year.

With the addition of the building and the approval of the State Department, which has recently been secured, the high school will offer the regular four years of high school training instead of only a two-year course.

When the new building opens several new teachers will be added, and the courses will be revised in keeping with a modern four-year high school to include a science laboratory, library, cafeteria, and a workshop.

At last week's meeting of the School Board, a contract was given to Fitzpatrick to install indoor toilets in the present building and one for other remodeling to Fesmire Brothers, of Bethayres.

HILLTOWN, Aug. 4.—Electors of Hilltown township at a special election on September 9th, will vote on a bond issue of $110,000 for a consolidated school building.

The board at a recent meeting definitely decided to go before the voters with the proposition at the earliest possible time.

The township School Board has for the past several years been looking forward to the time when the one-room school houses would be scrapped and in their stead be erected a modern equipped plant where pupils may be given all the advantages of borough and city schools.

DROWNED GIRL'S BODY TO BE SENT TO SHENANDOAH

Miss Doris Peterson, 17, New York, Meets Death in Neshaminy

WENT BEYOND DEPTH

The body of Miss Doris Peterson, 17-year-old New York City girl, who was drowned at Neshaminy Falls on Saturday, will be forwarded to Shenandoah, Pa., for burial.

The young woman, who resided at 3605 Academy street, was passing her vacation with a friend, Miss Hannah Hart, 18, of 954 Granite street, Philadelphia, and the two had gone to Neshaminy Falls to bathe.

Miss Hart was unable to swim, although Miss Peterson could. The latter waded beyond her depth and was drowned. It was not until an hour later that the body was recovered by Morrisville State police.

When the New York girl reached a point beyond her depth her companion endeavored to rescue her. Miss Peterson grappled with the Hart girl, and the latter was forced to break away and swim to shore for her own safety.

The body was located by Troopers Keuch and Sweeney, and later taken to a Langhorne morgue.

Parents of the Peterson girl were notified at their New York home, and the body was ordered sent to Shenandoah.

Fin of R-100 Expected To Be Repaired by Wednesday

ST. HUBERT AIRPORT, Montreal, Aug. 4.—(INS)—Riggers working on the damaged fin on the R-100 today to finish their work Wednesday so the British airship may take off on projected flights to Ottawa, Toronto and Quebec. Definite decision regarding these flights, however, has not been made.

Officers and crew of the dirigible will be guests today at a luncheon given by the Canadian Club. Wing Commander R. B. B. Colman, and other officers will speak. The talks will be broadcast in the United States over Station WABC, New York.

Between 150,000 and 200,000 persons viewed the airship, Sunday as it swung at her mooring mast here.

Two Bristol Tree-Sitters Have Come to Earth

TREE SITTERS

William and Thomas Evans, 13 and 12, respectively, Croydon, Up since July 19th, at 8 p. m.

William Miles and William Dowd, 17 and 18, respectively, Bristol, Green Lane and Highway, Up since 5:30 p. m., July 22nd.

James Mandeville, 18, and Armand Bunnichin, 17, south of Adams Hollow Creek, Bristol, Up since 9:30 p. m., July 23rd, came down August 2nd, at 5 p. m.

Two of Bristol's tree-sitters, James Mandeville and Armand Bunnichin, have come to earth. They left their perch in the large buttonwood tree, just south of Adams Hollow Creek, Saturday afternoon, at 5 o'clock. They roosted in the tree for 235½ consecutive hours.

The boys gave up their determination of beating the record because of statements made about them which were considered false.

The Evans brothers, Croydon, are undaunted by the fact that the record for tree-sitting has been boosted from 360 hours to 392 hours.

The boys have been up 360 hours ending at 8 o'clock last evening. They show no signs of weakening and feel confident that they will go beyond the record.

The record of 392 hours was made by Edward "Reds" Githens, Camden, N. J., who left his perch at 7:30 p. m., Friday evening.

Banker Retires After Paying Off Depositors

HAVEN, Kan., Aug. 4.—Letting well enough alone, the Citizens State bank of Haven has closed its doors and is paying off its depositors and stockholders obligations in full.

The decision to close came, not because the bank was insolvent—far from it—but because C. R. Astel, is retiring after twenty years of service, and because the directors do not think he could amply be replaced.

George D. Merritt, president of the institution, in explaining the closing of the bank asserted, "a new cashier might make bad loans and endanger depositors."

Storekeeper Sleeps Through Robbery

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 4.—Anthony Boncignone, fruit store operator, is a sound sleeper. So soundly does Anthony sleep that it required the vocal efforts of four policemen to waken him and announce the robbery of his store, in which he so placidly slept.

TULLYTOWN

Arthur Leigh, of Main street, has returned to his home after spending several days at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James King, of Bristol Township.

PETTY ROBBERIES ARE REPORTED TO POLICE

Articles of Trifling Nature Taken from Several Places

STORES AND DWELLINGS

A number of petty robberies have been reported in Bristol which occurred Friday and Saturday nights. The work, it is believed, has been done by boys as only articles of a trifling nature were taken. Most of the loot stolen was eatables.

Saturday night thieves broke into the Cameron Drug Store, Farragut avenue. Entrance was gained over a rear transom from which the screen was removed.

An attempt to enter "The Pines" was made but proved unsuccessful. A screen was removed from the window of the store portion of the building and a ladder was placed at a window of the dwelling portion and screen taken out.

No evidence of anyone having entered the building was obtained.

Friday night several dwellings were entered in the Sixth ward. Refrigerators were opened and articles of food stolen.

Held on Suspicion In Detroit Killing

Angelo Livecchi was arrested, charged with the murder of Gerald Buckley, popular radio crusader, in the lobby of the La Salle Hotel, Detroit. Livecchi is said to be an associate of Peter Licavoli, reputed king of the river run runners.

MANY COME TO COUNTY FOR MARRIAGE LICENSES

78% of Those Granted in One Month for Non-Residents

118 COUPLES IN JULY

DOYLESTOWN, Aug. 4.—Seventy-eight per cent of the marriage licenses granted in July at the office of the Bucks County Clerk of Orphans' Court were issued to non-residents of the county. Seventy-seven came from Trenton and forty-nine from Philadelphia.

The docket shows that 118 couples were granted licenses and out of the 236 individuals, 185 were non-residents.

"The marriage license bureau in Bucks county would not be very busy if it were not for people living outside the county coming here for licenses," Deputy Clerk Jacob Shelly said yesterday. "We have been doing more business every month and the popularity of Doylestown as a first-class marrying center seems to be increasing too."

Many of the couples are married here by the ministers and the two Justices of the Peace. We treat them right and they tell their friends."

The average age of the male applicants was thirty years while the females averaged twenty-six.

Six states were represented in the list of licenses, including New Jersey, Indiana, Mass., Oklahoma, New York in addition to Pennsylvania.

There were licenses granted to nineteen men and twenty-one women who had been married previously. Two male applicants had been married twice before. There were nine divorced men and eight divorced women in the list.

Seventy-three of the 118 female applicants told the clerk they had occupations other than housework. A great many of the female applicants were hosiery workers.

Bristol, the largest borough in Bucks county, furnished 10 applicants while Morrisville and Doylestown each produced seven. Sellersville was the only borough in the county that did not send an applicant to Doylestown in July.

One license was granted to a young man twenty-one who took as his bride a widow of twenty-three, whose first husband died less than sixty days ago.

In another instance a Philadelphia merchant and missionary of forty-one who had been married once before, received a license to marry a young widow of twenty-three, who was a native of Blooming Glen, Bucks county. The ages of the applicants as they applied are grouped as follows:

	Men	Women
Under 21 years	3	18
21 to 25 years	52	67
25 to 30 years	29	11
30 to 40 years	18	8
40 to 50 years	8	10
50 to 60 years	8	4
60 to 70 years	1	1

Two Typhoons Mean Death To Fifty People in Japan

LONDON, Aug. 4.—(INS)—Two disastrous typhoons, striking a broad path across central Japan from the Pacific Ocean to the Sea of Japan, brought death to fifty persons and caused wide disaster, according to a dispatch today to the London Times.

Hondu on the eastern side was the heaviest hit, with the largest fatality list. Scores of buildings collapsed in the wake of the typhoon; landslides and drownings added extensively to the casualty list and property damage.

At Osaka 10,000 houses were reported flooded, with 3,000 buildings standing in water at Tokyo. The crops of Tottori, on the eastern seaboard of Japan, suffered heavily.

The storms are the second devastating disturbance to visit the Island Empire within a few weeks, previous ones having severely damaged southern Japan and taken scores of lives.

BLAZE DESTROYS BARN, CATTLE AND CROPS AT SUNDALE

Loss on Farm of Harvey Haney Estimated at About $12,000

ALL MACHINERY LOST

Partly-Burned Barn at Tullytown Is Totally Destroyed

Eleven cows, thirteen pigs, and all of the season's crops, as well as all farm machinery from three farms, were destroyed Saturday night when a barn on the property of Harvey Haney, Sundale, three miles east of Ottsville, was burned to the ground.

The blaze, discovered by neighbors, had gained such headway when first noticed at about 9 o'clock, that it was deemed useless to summon fire companies. Three horses were led to safety by those living nearby, but it was impossible for the cows and pigs to be taken from the burning structure. Included in the mass of blackened debris were also a silo, wagon-house and chicken house.

At the time of the blaze Haney and his family were attending a picnic at Durham, having left at 6 o'clock. Haney was not informed of the fire until about 11:30 that night.

Loss on the Haney farm is estimated at between $11,000 and $12,000. Insurance, it is believed, will fully cover the loss.

In February of 1929 another large barn on the Haney place was destroyed by fire. A new structure was raised in its place, just being completed one year ago. It was this new building that burned to the ground Saturday evening. At no time was the house in danger.

An effort is being made to determine the cause of the blaze, which is as yet unknown. Apparently the fire started in the upper portion of the barn.

The old partly burned barn near Tullytown along the canal bank was totally destroyed last night by fire.

The building, owned by the Charles Warner Sand Company, had been affixed on numerous occasions and firemen have been called to the scene, but due to the location of the building have been unable to reach it with hose lines.

Blaze last night got a good start and the frame being dry it burned rapidly.

A large number of motorists were attracted to the scene by the reflection, which could be seen for miles. The structure was valued at about $700.

STATE NEWS

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Aug. 4.—(INS)—A baptismal record book which received its first entry in 1764, 166 years ago, is still in use in the Paradise Reform Church here, according to the Rev. E. V. Strassbaugh, pastor.

The book, according to an inscription in German script on its front page, was purchased in Philadelphia in 1764 by a Henry Bott and presented to Wolf's Union Church.

The original Wolf's Union Church is now a part of the Paradise church and was built in 1763 on land purchased the year previous from Adam Zeigler.

For the first 34 years entries were made in German, but in 1797 an English entry states that three members of the "Lutheran and Reformed Congregations of Wolf's church, in Manchester township, York county, State of Pennsylvania," will act as trustees from July 16, 1797. The names given were George P. Zeigler, Adam Wolf, and Valentine Emig.

A pewter communion set on which is inscribed the date "1765" also is owned by the Paradise Reform Church.

HANOVER, Pa., Aug. 4.—(INS)—A An antique plate on which is embossed a picture of George Washington and with the inscription "I have waited for many hours and days, but cannot," in German has been sold for $500.

The plate was bought by Mrs. R. S. Brunner, of Reinhold, from County Commissioner Samuel R. Miller, of Millburg, and is of the type given as presents at christenings, weddings and other occasions for celebrations.

The date on the plate is the same as the year in which the Commissioner's grandfather, George Michael Miller, was born.

MAINE CITIZENS BUY AIRPORT

PRESQUE ISLE, Me., Aug. 4.—Development of aviation in Maine received stimulus in the action of local citizens who raised $40,000 and purchased a 270 acre tract of land to be made into an airport. The field is along the Montreal to Halifax air route.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 4.—Robbins B. Stockell, state commissioner of motor vehicles, is working for psychological tests for all motor vehicle drivers. Stockell believes such tests, together with strict physical tests, would eliminate much of the trouble that autos have brought upon the public.

CENSUS CANNOT PLEASE ALL

The accuracy of the census ought to be placed beyond question. The figures are used in a thousand ways by business and industry and by the government itself, and without accuracy there can be no equality of representation in Congress. Representation for the next 10 years is to be apportioned among the states on the basis of the present census.

Many errors and surprises have developed as the Federal enumeration has progressed. But inaccuracies are not always involved where the census returns have not come up to expectations. When the enumerators are not quite so generous as the unofficial forecasters, cities and states are inclined to question the accuracy of the government's count.

Cities, states, individuals and even geographical sections are jealous of their representation in Congress. The extent to which they will do the governing or be governed depends upon the rise or fall of their population in proportion to that of the rest of the country. This is important because there is little unanimity of purpose in a legislative way between rural and urban America or between the agricultural West and industrial East.

This refusal of the political divisions, which are destined to lose representation, to believe the worst is an echo from Congress' stubborn and illegal resistance to the constitutional mandate for a decennial reapportionment that resulted in the passing of the one which should have been made in 1920.

FALSE ECONOMY

You know the jay-walker—in fact, you have probably burned your tires at one time or another to keep from running him down. He crosses the street wherever and however he pleases, without regard for his own safety and the hearts and tempers of motorists. He takes intersections on a diagonal. He is never content to follow the regular path. He thinks he is saving time. But is he? The dodging, jumping and backing uses up more time than it would have taken to follow the regular path. And he is taking a needless risk.

Mr. Jay-Walker has a brother, the jay-buyer. He always knows a way to buy things cheaper. He knows of a man who sells radios, dirt cheap—"makes them himself." He has discovered a little unknown tire dealer—"his tires cost about half what you pay for advertised makes." He has found a way to beat the "gasoline trust." He thinks he is saving money. But is he?

Somehow or other he just cannot make his income go as far as Bill, across the way. Yet Bill has the habit of reading advertisements and buying standard goods. Bill's radio gets more stations. Bill gets more mileage from his gasoline and his tires never blow out. The first cost of Bill's purchases are the last. The first cost of the jay-buyer's purchases are the last.

There is such a thing as false economy, and the jay-buyer has found it. He does not know it, but the profit on the inferior products he buys is many times that of the standard goods reliable manufacturers and merchants advertise.

Trouble is easy to borrow, but hard to pay back.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

ITEMS OF INTEREST AS CLIPPED FROM NEWSPAPER FILES

Alice Smith, of Hulmeville, was appointed teacher of the Eden School to succeed Mrs. F. J. Rook, of Newtown, according to a 32-year-old copy of the Newtown Enterprise, dated August 3, 1895.

Daniel Bilger was awarded a contract for the enlargement of the school house at Hulmeville, to cost $1800.

Allen G. Eschbach for several years teacher of the public school at Newportville, resigned and started preparation to enter Harvard University.

The barn on the farm of Charles Pope, in the upper end of Falls township, not far from Morrisville, was destroyed by fire on a Sunday afternoon. All the contents, including two horses, were consumed.

A gang of seventy tramps took possession of a freight train on the Pennsylvania Railroad, near Bristol, and drove off the crew. When officers Till and Wilkinson appeared a strenuous battle ensued. The officers finally succeeded in capturing five of the tramps.

Samuel H. Hibbs, of Middletown, had his pocket picked while attending camp meeting at Simpson Grove.

The young son of Adrian Cornell, of near Richboro, fell from a hay mow, striking his head on a hay wagon and receiving a big gash in his forehead.

Forty new gasoline street lamps were erected in Yardley.

Yardley Borough Council appointed the following Board of Health: Dr. E. C. Bailey, J. R. Conly, Frederick Goodnow, Henry C. Brown and Dr. E. C. Hancock.

A number of lads on an exploring expedition discovered a large den of blacksnakes in the old Neely copper mine, above Brownsburg. The snakes showed fight and the boys killed nine before getting out of the hole.

A copy of the same paper dated July 27, 1895, contained the following:

Silas R. Yerkes, living in New Hope, celebrated his twenty-fifth anniversary of his connection with the Northeast Pennsylvania Railroad.

The New Hope Cornet Band elected the following officers: President, John Isler; vice-president, Walter Hill; secretary, George Kauffman; treasurer, Horace Schick; leader, William C. Pratt; assistant leader, E. M. Cox; janitor, George Masten.

Hulmeville had an orchestra composed exclusively of women, the only organization of its kind in the county. The members were Miss Marion Tilton and Miss Almee Leedom, first and second violin; Miss Lillian Votham, violin; Miss Flo Wetham, violoncello; Miss Nellie Tilton, pianist.

The last town crier of Daylestown was Richmond Virginia Sylvester Miller Wells, a 44-year-old negro, who died of typhoid fever. Dick and his bell made proclamation of the sales through the streets of the county seat.

No speeding was allowed thirty-five years ago. William Y. Cadwallader went to Philadelphia on his bicycle. Failing to ring his bell at a street crossing he was arrested by a policeman and fined $5.

On Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Henry, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Jesse G. Webster and son Edwin, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh B. Webster and daughter Betty, and Miss Adeline E. Reitz left for a motor trip to Maine.

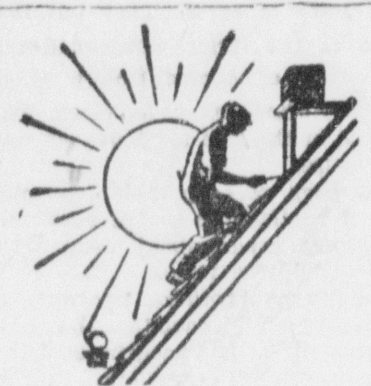

Wardell Stackhouse has returned to his Bellevue avenue home after a visit to his uncle, Lawrence Stackhouse, Sr., at Hillendale-on-the-Delaware.

Paint is being applied to the home of Jesse C. Everitt, Main street.

A trip to Asbury Park, N. J., was enjoyed on Saturday by Mr. and Mrs. George LeCompte, of Main street, and Mr. and Mrs. Chillian LeCompte and daughter Doris, of Lincoln avenue.

Mr. William Codling has been entertaining relatives at her Main street home.

Over the week-end William Wiggins,

Edward Hougland, of Philadelphia, has been visiting at the home of his sister, Mrs. John Manning, of Fallsington avenue.

Copyright 1929, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc. "Show of Shows," the Warner Bros. Vitaphone picture was the source for the material on which these stories are based.

SYNOPSIS

Harry Cronk, Hollywood press agent, introduces Leo Hanton to Queenie Quinn, script girl on the Warner lot, who lands Leo in the "Show of Shows." Being an extra in a picture with no stars encourages Hanton. Queenie nips him up and advises that he learn the "inside" of talking picture production. He witnesses the shooting of several scenes of the revue and is puzzled to know how the completed picture will be assembled.

INSTALLMENT SEVEN

In furtherance of his education, Leo began the new day resolved to find out something about the designing and building of sets. He naturally hesitated to consult Max Parker, to whom the "Show of Shows" settings were credited, but he realized that no other person would be of much help to him.

He enjoyed a break in luck, however, in encountering Chester Morris in the studio restaurant when he dropped in for his morning's coffee. He had met Morris, an able performer recruited from the speaking stage, several days earlier and had entered into an immediate friendship with him.

"I'm interested in these settings, myself," admitted Morris, after Leo had confided his ambitions to him. "But like yourself, I'm more or less new to pictures, and haven't had much time to look them over with any thoroughness."

"Perhaps we could size them up together," suggested Leo. "And maybe we could find somebody to help us."

"Not a bad idea," agreed the actor. "Just what do you want to know about them?"

"Why," said Leo vaguely, "everything."

"Well," countered Morris, "that's rather a lot. There's so many angles. You know—the coloring, the lighting, why even their moods. There's a lot of them. So far I've been fascinated by their practical side."

"What do you mean, practical?" "Well," explained Morris, "on the stage a set at times is an absolute menace. Often they ruin a scene. An audience can't be very well convinced if they see the whole room quiver when a door slams, or if the door sticks or re-opens."

"I get your idea," said Leo. "That's building. Now take lighting and design. I remember seeing a show once that had a back-drop representing a bit of Long Island Sound. During the second act one of the players pointed to the back-drop and announced that his body might be found floating on the water there the next morning. It just wasn't believable, least of all the player who had to utter the speech."

"I see. Now what is all this about a set's mood?" asked Leo. "Well," began Morris, "you know it's necessary for—oh, I can't explain it, but I'll tell you what we'll do. Mr. Parker has done a beautiful job for the Chinese Number Suppose we look it over."

Fortunately the set was uncoupled when they arrived. They were thus able to study it in what amounted to "the rough." Without benefit of lights it was somberly impressive. It was erected on an enormous stage. Before a figured backdrop designed, Morris explained to Leo, to "take the lights" with the best possible effect, stood three Chinese pagodas, set in a semi-circle.

The center structure was larger than the other two which, of similar size and design stood on either side. The larger one had four curved roofs, graduating into a sort of steeple. All the roofs were tiled. The back drape parted behind the pillared entrance of the center pagoda. A dozen huge bronze vases symmetrically arranged, were set downstage from either side of the center structure. Altogether it was the most colorful bit of architecture Leo had ever beheld.

But he was to marvel even more when, accompanied by Queenie, he returned to the set during a rehearsal of the Chinese number. Illumined, its beauty became indescribable. The pagodas and drapes rippled with colors which had eluded the inspection of both Morris and himself. His respect for Mr. Parker and the electricians mounted mightily.

Shortly thereafter he included Earl Luck, the costume designer, in his new collection of heroes. A chorus of one hundred and twenty five girls in exquisite Chinese costumes performed an Oriental ballet before the pagodas. Later, when, by good luck, he managed to see the rushes of this number, he appreciated how effectively the scene, filmed in natural color, had been captured and how perfectly the mood of the dance was attuned to that of the set.

This glamorous setting also served as a background for an engaging scene between Myrna Loy and Nick Lucas. Garbed in the jeweled habiliments of a Chinese princess, Miss Loy did a interpretative Chinese dance, as Mr. Lucas crooned "Li-Po-Li," a song remarkably well "placed" (in the phrase of the composer, Eddie Ward) in an Oriental setting.

"I wonder," said Leo doubtfully, "I'm getting anywhere."

"Getting anywhere?" repeated Queenie.

"Yes," he continued. "The more I see the more convinced I become that everything's over my head. Now, where did Mr. Parker ever get all those ideas? It doesn't seem possible that one person could conceive such a setting and then make it actually take form."

"Well, don't be distressed about it," advised Queenie. "Don't forget Mr. Parker had his heartbreaks, too, when he was learning. Only they meant more to him because it was his career; to you it's only a casual study."

"What worries me," muttered Leo disconsolately, "is what I'll eventually be."

"Oh, you're a nice boy anyway," Leo, said Queenie. "That's a pretty nice career, don't you think?"

"You wouldn't kid me, would you?"

"Who wouldn't?" she returned. "Down in your heart you know, Queenie," went on Leo, "that I'm on my way to become one of the big shots of this lot. Why not admit it? And when I am, I'm coming around to remind you of your skepticism. Don't forget it."

"Oh," chided the girl, "you won't even remember me."

"Won't I though? Say, what's going to become of our bridge foursome? And listen," he added brightly, "by that time we can probably afford to play for a quarter of a cent."

"It's a date then?" asked Queenie. "Agreed."

IF THIS ISN'T THE ANSWER WHAT IS

A friend of ours says that last summer he asked his caddy: "When is a golf ball lost?" The caddy came right back with the reply: "A golf ball isn't lost until you stop looking for it." Certainly, this is right, a golf ball isn't lost until you stop looking for it and a man isn't a failure until he quits trying.

STATE NEWS

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Aug. 4.—(INS)—"Tommy" and his master, Joe Novetsky, a watchman at the Glen Alden Coal Company, here, succeeded where the combined efforts of the city's police and fire department had failed.

"Tommy" is the pet cat of the watchman and when an escaped monkey dared to violate the sanctum of Tommy's home in one of the coal company's buildings, it was greeted with hisses and threats of a clawing from the feline.

The monkey decided to retreat but found she couldn't for she was in a corner. No amount of maneuvering could get her out of the cat's reach. Finally the cat's cries and the excited chattering of the intruder brought Joe. Placing a pair of gloves over his hands, the watchman grasped the animal and held her tight. Later he turned her over to attendants at Kirby Park Zoo.

The monkey was one of two which escaped from the Zoo two weeks previously and which had eluded firemen and policemen who thought they, if anyone, could effect a capture.

Bids Au Revoir to Court

Throat Infection Forces Temporary Retirement of Helen Jacobs, Crown Princess of American Tennis.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Helen Jacobs' temporary retirement from tennis competition ends for a time one of the pluckiest uphill battles ever staged by a "second runner" in sports.

Forced out by a throat infection, the No. 2 ranking woman tennis player of America, has announced she will not appear on the courts again for at least a year.

In her short but astonishing career, Miss Jacobs has never been crowned champion, because unfortunately her career has coincided with that of the outstanding girl player of all time—Helen Wills Moody.

Both of the Helens come from California, and both during their careers, have outclassed all rival American stars. Almost every All-Yankee tournament they entered was seen from the first as a battle strictly between these two feminine headliners of the net game.

However, each time the two Helens met in the final and deciding match, Helen Wills Moody conquered. No matter with what velocity and skill Miss Jacobs drove the ball over the net, the poker-faced girl from Beverly Hills was there to return it.

For Miss Jacobs with her soul set on victory, these repeated set-backs were heart-breaking. Yet she never showed her disappointment in either her face or manner as she congratulated her victorious opponent.

The difference between their play is chiefly a matter of steadiness. Helen Jacobs is heavier and stronger, and certainly a harder hitter.

But sometimes she suffers nervousness and over-excitement, missing shots at crucial moments. In Mrs. Moody's calmness lies her strength.

While in action she appears impervious to the elements, to whether she is winning or losing, to questionable rulings by officials, in short, to everything.

But Helen Jacobs is far more impressionable. She grins when she scores, groans when she misses and emits feminine squeals in the stress of excitement.

What is more important, Miss Jacobs has been known to become impatient and weary. It is at such times that her opponents pile up precious points in their favor.

As for gameness, itself—no more courageous player has ornamented

American sport. Last Fall, Helen Jacobs went through the Wrightman Cup games and the American singles championship in obvious pain.

Even the most ardent of Mrs. Moody's admirers today hope that she will recover from her affliction in time to make a bid or two more for the supremacy of the American courts against that even more sterling court performer—Helen Wills.

said to be none too enthusiastic about the proposed match. The Infanta Eulalia, his mother, commented timely: "It is all so ridiculous. Why, she is older than I am, and I can only say I am sorry for her children and grandchildren."

However, the entire matter is to be threshed out in the Tribunal of the Seine. That celebrated high French Court will decide whether the marriage is legally possible. Amedee's protesting family will be represented in court by her Nephew, the Duc de Brissac.

This is not the first time that Prince Don Luis' romances have been aired in the newspapers. About a year ago, he was reported engaged to marry Mabelle Gilman Corey, wealthy former wife of William E. Corey, the Pittsburgh millionaire.

This romance was wrecked when the rich Mrs. Gilman announced that she had broken off with her Spanish grandee because of a dispute about the amount to be settled upon him before the wedding day.

In the prince's past life there have been other very unsavory episodes. In Paris, the boulevardiers call him the "black sheep" of Spanish royalty. However, there are members of royalty who look with favor upon the curious match, for instance, there is the Princess Catherine Radziwell, who declares that the Princess Amedee should be lauded for wanting to marry at an advanced age and that modern women who refuse to grow old are entitled to their romance.

Incidentally, Princess Amedee is fabulously rich, while Prince Luis is said to be poverty-stricken. It is for the Tribunal of the Seine to decide the interesting question of just when a woman is too old to marry and whether the fact that she is a grandmother has any bearing on her matrimonial eligibility.

Will Bells Peal for Don
Luis and Aged Princess?

Tribunal of Seine to Determine If Wedding Bells Shall Ring for Romantic Prince and His 74-Year-Old Fiancee.

PRINCESS AMEDEE DE BROGUE & DON LUIS DE BOURBON.

PARIS, Aug. 4.—These are sad, bad days indeed for European royalty.

The latest is that elderly blue-bloods are not to be permitted to marry whom they please. That was bad enough in the era when thrones were involved but now that dukes and princes have been divested of their rightful or wrongful domains, it seems that the least people can do is to allow these ex-wearers of ermine to embark on whatever matrimonial adventures they choose to hazard.

The latest royal marriage plans to be held up are those of Prince Luis de Bourbon, cousin to King Alfonso of Spain, and Princess Amedee de Brogue, member of one of the most aristocratic families of France.

Objection to the match has been made by the family of the blushing bride-to-be, who declare that a 74-year-old grandmother is too old to marry, particularly when the claimant to her hand is only forty-one and known as one of the gayest playboys in Western Europe.

The Prince's family can also be
